HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

[Reprinted from the Annual Register for 1918–19]

The pioneers of the New West brought schools with them in the cabins of the diminutive schooners which anchored at the mouth of the Chicago River. From the beginning education was regarded as essential in the life of the little settlement. In 1855, only eighteen years after the town became the city of Chicago, Senator Stephen A. Douglas gave a tract of ten acres of land as a site for a university. In 1857 the (old) University of Chicago was founded, a result of this gift and of the interest which it created. Inadequately endowed, weakened by disagreements among its friends, hampered by debts, harassed by panics and by the two great fires which consumed the wealth of citizens and changed the social conditions of many thousands of people, the old University was at length obliged to yield to the inevitable, and in 1886 its doors were closed.

Its usefulness, however, did not end with its collapse. The need of an institution of higher learning was still deeply felt. There were graduates who had risen to places of influence in the community, four of whom subsequently became members of the Board of Trustees of the new University of Chicago. The hopes of this body of alumni, the educational ideals of the Middle West, the pleas of friends of the Baptist Union Theological Seminary—these, together with other influences and considerations, led the friends of education in Chicago seriously to study the situation.

Meanwhile to Mr. John D. Rockefeller had been presented the needs of Chicago for a new institution of learning. The American Baptist Education Society had been organized in May, 1888. Mr. Rockefeller in that same year communicated with Professor William Rainey Harper, then of Yale University, who was fully conversant with the educational possibilities of Chicago by reason of his former service in the Baptist Union Theological Seminary, and with Dr. Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed, of Chicago, and Rev. Fred T. Gates, secretary of the Education Society. As the result of these at first informal negotiations and of subsequent conferences with leaders of thought in Chicago and in the East, the Executive Board of the Education Society approved an effort to establish an educational institution of high standing in Chicago, and subsequently, at the annual meeting of the Society held in Boston in May, 1889, it was unanimously voted "to take immediate steps toward the founding of a well-equipped college in the City of Chicago." Mr. Rockefeller, in order to make possible the founding of this institution of learning, offered to contribute $600,000 of a proposed $1,000,000 fund, provided the remaining $400,000 should be subscribed before June 1, 1890.

Dr. Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed, who served as Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago from 1890 until 1912, thus describes the efforts to meet the liberal and inspiring offer made by Mr. Rockefeller:

Immediately following the announcement of Mr. Rockefeller's subscription, early in June, 1889, a meeting was held in Chicago, and a College Committee of thirty-six was appointed to co-operate with the Society in the effort to meet the conditions proposed. This committee appointed Rev. T. W. Goodspeed to assist Mr. Gates in raising the $400,000 required. They accomplished the work, and in addition secured from Mr. Marshall Field, of Chicago, a block and a half of ground, valued at $125,000, as a site for the new institution. Two and a half additional blocks were afterward purchased for $282,500, thus providing a site of four blocks, or about twenty-four acres. The streets running through this tract were vacated by the City Council, making the University's land one unbroken piece, two blocks long and two blocks wide. In 1898, by the munificence of Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Field, two more blocks were added, at a cost of $335,000. Later between seven and eight additional blocks were added to these six. The land lies between the two great south parks of Chicago—Washington and Jackson—and fronts south on the Midway Plaisance, which is itself a park connecting the other two. The University now owns, including the grounds of Yerkes Observatory, at Williams Bay, Wis., about 165 acres reserved for educational purposes.

The annual meeting of the Education Society in May, 1890, was held in Chicago, and the Board of the Society adopted articles of incorporation and a charter for the new institution. On September 10 of the same year the University was incorporated with the following trustees: E. Nelson Blake, first president of the board, Edward Goodman, Herman H. Kohlsaat, George C. Walker, William R. Harper, Andrew MacLeish, Martin A. Ryerson, Henry A. Rust, Alonzo K. Parker, Joseph M. Bailey, Charles C. Bowen, Charles L. Hutchinson, Frederick A. Smith, George A. Pillsbury, Ferdinand W. Peck, Daniel L. Shorey, Francis E. Hinckley, John W. Midgley, Eli B. Felsenthal, Elmer L. Corthell, Charles W. Needham.

The incorporators named in the charter were John D. Rockefeller, E. Nelson Blake, Marshall Field, Fred T. Gates, Francis E. Hinckley, and Thomas W. Goodspeed. The name of the corporation in law is "The University of Chicago." In recognition of the peculiar relation of Mr. Rockefeller to the institution, the Board of Trustees has enacted that on the seal and all official publications of the University the title shall read: "The University of Chicago, founded by John D. Rockefeller."

At the first meeting of the Board after its incorporation in September, 1890, Professor William Rainey Harper, of Yale University, was elected President; and he entered on the duties of his office July 1, 1891. Before Professor Harper accepted the presidency, the scope of the institution had been greatly enlarged. Professor Harper felt that it should be in fact, as well as in name, a university, and Mr. Rockefeller, agreeing with this view, in September, 1890, added $1,000,000 to his former subscription. In accordance with the terms of this second subscription, the Baptist Union Theological Seminary was removed from Morgan Park to the University site as the Divinity School of the University, an Academy of the University was established at Morgan Park, and $100,000 of the amount of the subscription was devoted to the erection of the dormitories for the Divinity School on the grounds of the University.

The foregoing is necessarily but a brief summary of the events involved in the founding of the University, a summary interestingly elaborated in the history of its first twenty-five years written by Dr. Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed and published as one of the exhibits of University progress during the Quarter-Centennial celebration in June, 1916.

The University opened its doors to students without spectacular exercises on October 1, 1892. Preparations for this event, which proved to be noteworthy, not only in the history of the University itself, but in that of education in the United States, were begun nearly two years before. A series of six "Official Bulletins" setting forth the organization of the new institution was published. Buildings were begun, ground being broken for the first, Cobb Lecture Hall, on November 26, 1891. When the University opened, only four buildings were ready for use—Cobb Lecture Hall and the Divinity and Graduate dormitories.

Beginning with his gift of $600,000, Mr. Rockefeller continued to demonstrate his devotion to the great cause of human enlightenment, and to the University as exemplifying that devotion, by repeated additional gifts. In September, 1890, he gave $1,000,000, of which $800,000 was for the endowment of non-professional graduate instruction and fellowships, following it with another $1,000,000 in February, 1892, for endowment, and soon after the opening of the University, when it was seen how promising was the new educational enterprise in Chicago and how speedily it was developing, another $1,000,000 was contributed.

During the twenty-nine years of history which began with the election of President Harper, Mr. Rockefeller, who would not permit his name to be given to the University, has contributed to establish it upon an enduring financial basis the magnificent total of $34,873,360.90, including his final gift. Of this, an amount in excess of $22,000,000 was designated for endowment and more than $12,000,000 for other purposes. These gifts made possible the steady progress of the University, applicable as they were to the innumerable necessities of a new institution having at the beginning no physical plant or apparatus, only limited grounds, and the nucleus of a library. They included funds for making the University environment healthful and beautiful; they provided for research; they were evidence that the Founder desired to see faculty and students, not only teaching and learning, but teaching and learning amid conditions that make for joy of service and for health and happiness.

Having for twenty years been a generous and constant giver, in December, 1910, Mr. Rockefeller made his crowning contribution to the University, his "final gift" as he described it in his letter addressed to the Trustees. This gift consisted of securities valued at $10,000,000—the whole amount to be paid to the University in ten annual instalments. Nine of these instalments have been paid. Accompanying the letter conveying the gift was another in which he said:

> It is my desire that at least the sum of $1,500,000 be used for the erection and furnishing of a University Chapel. As the spirit of religion should penetrate and control the University so that building which represents religion ought to be the central and dominant feature of the University group. . . . . Apart from what may be required for the Chapel, the remainder of the fund may be used, in the discretion of the Trustees, for land, buildings, or endowment, but no part of the principal sum shall be used for current expenses. . . . . I hope that this final gift from me may be used for endowment as far as practicable.

The Board of Trustees has selected the block situated between University and Woodlawn avenues and Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth streets as the site of the chapel, for which preliminary plans have been drawn by the architect, Mr. Bertram G. Goodhue, of New York City.

Mr. Rockefeller has not been the only large contributor to the upbuilding of the University. It has had many loyal and generous friends who have poured out their millions for buildings, apparatus, and endowments; it has had other supporters, no less loyal and generous, who have given smaller amounts. In the printed list of gifts by 2,200 contributors to the fund which made possible, in 1912, the completion of the William Rainey Harper Memorial Library, side by side with Mr. Rockefeller's notable gift of $181,261.02 was one of $10 and another of $16.66.

One of the largest single gifts made to the University, outside of the great contributions of the Founder, is that of Mr. Hobart W. Williams, who, in 1916, conveyed property in the central part of Chicago valued at $2,000,000 or more. In 1915–16, through the generous contributions of Mr. La Verne Noyes, Ida Noyes Hall, a memorial to his wife, was built at a cost of nearly $500,000. It is the social center for women, comprising a clubhouse, a gymnasium, a natatorium, and a refectory. By the will of Mr. Noyes, who died in August, 1919, paintings and other works of art contained in his residence were bequeathed to the University for the use of Ida Noyes Hall.

In 1918 Mr. Noyes again gave inspiring evidence of his regard for the University and the work it is performing in another large and significant contribution to its endowment. At the meeting of the Board of Trustees held July 5, 1918, he presented to the University a deed of gift to property in Chicago estimated to be worth $2,500,000. The property conveyed by this gift is to be held in perpetuity under the name of the La Verne Noyes Foundation. The income from the Foundation is to be used under the direction of the Board of Trustees for the following purposes:

To pay tuition in the University, whether in its colleges or in its graduate or professional schools, for deserving students without regard to differences in sex, race, religion, or political party, who shall be citizens of the United States and who either

First: Shall themselves have served in the Army or Navy of the United States in the war for liberty into which our Republic entered on the sixth day of April, 1917, provided that such service was terminated by an honorable discharge, or

Second: Shall be descendants by blood of anyone in service in the Army or Navy of the United States, who served in said war, or Third: Shall be descendants by blood of anyone who served in the Army or Navy of the United States in said war, provided that such service was terminated by an honorable death or an honorable discharge.

Already hundreds of men returning from war service in Europe or from camps in the United States have begun to receive the benefits of this endowment.

Other givers of large amounts may be named, among them the executors and trustees of the estate of William B. Ogden, Mr. Sidney A. Kent, Mr. Marshall Field, Mr. William E. Hale, Mr. Silas B. Cobb, Mr. C. R. Crane, Mr. F. H. Rawson, Mr. Charles H. Swift, Mr. Charles F. Grey, Mr. J. Ogden Armour, Mr. N. M. Kaufman, Mr. R. T. Crane, Jr., Mr. Frank G. Logan, Dr. Norman Bridge, Dr. Frank Billings, Mr. C. K. G. Billings, Mr. A. B. Ruddock, Mr. Charles H. Ruddock, Mr. John J. Mitchell, Mr. Leon Mandel, Mr. Harold F. McCormick, Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Mr. Charles T. Yerkes, Mr. W. F. E. Gurley, and Mr. Max Epstein.

A noteworthy fact in the history of the University is the part borne by women in its Faculties and in its classes. Women, too, have been liberal contributors to its funds. Among them may be named Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Miss Helen Culver, Mrs. Nancy S. Foster, Mrs. Henrietta Snell, Mrs. Mary Beecher, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Kelly, Mrs. Caroline E. Haskell, Mrs. Charles Hitchcock, Mrs. Joseph Bond, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Frank G. Logan, Mrs. Helen Swift Morris, Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, Mrs. Max Epstein, Mrs. J. Y. Scammon, Miss Helen Snow, and Mrs. W. J. Hill.

Mr. Martin A. Ryerson, who has been President of the Board of Trustees since 1892, not only provided the funds to build the physics laboratory and its annex at a cost of nearly $350,000, but has given to the University, in all, over $800,000, and, what is equally if not more valuable, has freely given his time to direction of the affairs of the University in almost every department. Mr. George C. Walker, one of the first group of Trustees, contributed the money for the construction of Walker Museum. Mr. A. C. Bartlett contributed the funds for the Frank Dickinson Bartlett Gymnasium in memory of a son. Mr. C. L. Hutchinson, Treasurer of the University from the beginning, made possible the erection of Hutchinson Commons. Mr. Julius Rosenwald, another Trustee, gave the money to build Rosenwald Hall, which houses the Departments of Geology and Geography. Other Trustees who have generously participated in efforts to develop the University's financial resources are: Mr. Harold H. Swift, Mr. Harold F. McCormick, Mr. Frederick A. Smith, Mr. Robert L. Scott, Mr. Francis W. Parker, Mr. Thomas E. Donnelley, Judge Jesse A. Baldwin, Mr. C. C. Bowen, Mr. H. H. Kohlsaat, Mr. Andrew MacLeish, Mr. Ferd. W. Peck, Mr. E. M. Barton, and Mr. D. G. Hamilton. There is not one of the fifty-two Trustees who have served the University who has not had, it may be said, some significant part in the development of the institution.

Within the necessary limitations of this sketch no complete list of even donors of considerable amounts can be given. Those whose names, for some particular reason, appear here are a few of the hundreds of friends who have been builders of the University since May 15, 1889, the date of Mr. Rockefeller's first pledge. In all, these friends, exclusive of Mr. Rockefeller, up to July 1, 1919, have made gifts in land, buildings, apparatus, and endowments for various purposes (including subscriptions to the fund for establishing the Medical Departments) of more than $18,600,000.

But, as President Judson once said in a public address: "The most vital assets of the University, however, are not found in millions of endowment, in great buildings, or in extensive acreage of land, but consist rather in the students, the alumni, the men and women who are doing university work. Character and intellectual attainments cannot be purchased by money, and are the finest fruitage of all the work which the University has done or will do."

The latest and in some respects the most notable forward movement in the history of the University was the inauguration of the great task to enlarge its medical work. Since 1898 the University, in affiliation with Rush Medical College, has been conducting medical courses, the fundamental sciences in the University buildings and the clinical work in the buildings of the College.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees, held November 8, 1916, in a comprehensive report, President Judson presented for consideration the matter of medical instruction in the University. The report proposed: the establishment of a medical school in the quadrangles of the University on the Midway, including a hospital; a medical school for practitioners to be placed within the great medical center on the West Side; and arrangements for co-operation with existing organizations for medical research. In order to develop the medical departments as projected, it was proposed to secure a new fund of $5,300,000, toward which amount the Rockefeller Foundation and the General Education Board each voted to contribute $1,000,000. It was pointed out that with the completion of the fund of $5,300,000, together with the endowment of the University the income of which was already being expended for medical education, and the land, buildings, and endowments of other organizations (which have subsequently entered upon contractual relations with the University), the plan would involve the use of something like $17,000,000. The Trustees of the University unanimously voted approval of the plan as outlined and appointed a committee of seven to undertake to raise the required funds.

The University's committee entered promptly upon its task, and within ninety days over $5,000,000 of the required amount was pledged. Two months before the close of the University's fiscal year, June 30, 1917, sufficient pledges had been secured to complete the necessary fund and steps were taken to inaugurate medical work upon the enlarged plan.

The executive boards of Rush Medical College, of the Presbyterian Hospital, of the Otho S. A. Sprague Memorial Institute, and of the Memorial Institute for Infectious Diseases Founded in Memory of John Rockefeller McCormick, are, by formal vote, now prepared fully to co-operate with the new medical schools of the University.

The $1,000,000 to provide the new University hospital to be erected on the south side of the Midway Plaisance was contributed by Mr. C. K. G. Billings, Mr. C. H. Ruddock, Mr. A. B. Ruddock, and Dr. Frank Billings. It is to be known as the Albert Meritt Billings Hospital. For building and equipping a dispensary for out-patients in connection with the Albert Meritt Billings Hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein gave $100,000. It will be known as Max Epstein Dispensary. Mr. F. H. Rawson, in order to further the work of the medical schools in connection with the Presbyterian Hospital, has made provision for a laboratory, to be known as the Rawson Laboratory, contributing to the University therefor property valued at $300,000.

The Board of Trustees has appointed an architect to design the hospital together with a consulting expert in hospital construction and organization, and plans for the hospital and dispensary are in preparation. Tentative plans for the hospital, the erection of which was retarded by the war, are already prepared. Meanwhile consideration is being given to the organization of the staff for the medical departments.

The history of the University, even a historical sketch necessarily as brief as this, should include more than a record of growth upon its physical side. Land and buildings and endowments are simply means to a great beneficent end. In the words of its articles of incorporation, written by Judge (subsequently Chief Justice) Joseph M. Bailey, of the Illinois Supreme Court, the objects for which the University exists are:

> To provide, impart, and furnish opportunities for all departments of higher education to persons of both sexes on equal terms; . . . . to establish and maintain a university, in which may be taught all branches of higher learning, and which may comprise and embrace separate departments for literature, law, medicine, music, technology, the various branches of science, both abstract and applied, the cultivation of the fine arts, and all other branches of professional or technical education which may properly be included within the purposes and objects of a university, and to provide and maintain courses of instruction in each and all of said departments.

The University has, since its doors opened October 1, 1892, furnished "opportunities" to students in many departments of higher education. Including those in attendance during the academic year 1918–19, more than 66,000 students have been in attendance upon its classes for at least one quarter. Degrees to the number of 12,699 have been conferred, inclusive of those conferred at the Summer Convocation, June, 1919, upon 11,396 persons, including 1,158 who have received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Forty-seven honorary degrees have been conferred.

There are in the University libraries 570,849 volumes exclusive of pamphlets.

The members of the several Faculties now number: Professors 120, Associate Professors 46, Assistant Professors 53, Instructors 55, Associates 8, Assistants 111, Teachers 53, Professorial Lecturers 6, besides library assistants, laboratory assistants, and readers. In all departments and in all grades of service the University employs about 1,300 persons.

The European war had its effect upon the University. Its students enlisted in large numbers in the various branches of war service. Members of its Faculties were called—and promptly responded—to work for the government in the United States and in duties across the sea, duties requiring in some instances their presence on battlefields and in others the cultivation of right public opinion at home and abroad. Laboratories at the opening of the war were placed by the Trustees at the disposal of the government for purposes of research and experimentation and were in constant and helpful use. The President of the University and other Trustees patriotically gave of their time, strength, and experience that the cause of justice and right might prevail. In all, 4,355 members of the University, embracing students, alumni, and members of the Faculties, were in the service of the government. Of these sixty-nine gave their lives to their country.

The annual enrolment of students since the beginning has been as follows:

HOW TO USE THE DIRECTORY

The Directory is arranged in three principal parts: (1) the main or Alphabetical List, with the names, addresses, etc., of all degree holders, except the holders of honorary degrees, which are given in a separate list at the beginning; (2) a Geographical Index arranged alphabetically by states, foreign countries, and the cities within such larger divisions; and (3) a special list of holders of Bachelors' degrees, arranged by classes.

For special information, the following key is used: * for deaths; ‡ for uncertain addresses; † for unknown addresses.

Those listed as "uncertain" are addresses from which no mail has been returned for a period of over a year. A special list of those without addresses is given on pages 543 to 549.

When no city is named the address of the alumnus is Chicago.

To find the names of alumni by cities, states, and foreign countries consult the Geographical Index.

The addresses of alumnae who have married since graduation will be found recorded under the married name, which is followed by the maiden name; the maiden name is also recorded alphabetically in the main list, followed by the married name as a reference. In the special Bachelor Index by classes the name which appears on the diploma is given first.

The degrees enumerated in this Directory are those conferred prior to September 1, 1919.

The University year runs from July 1 to July 1. Graduates in the Summer Quarter will find themselves classified under the numerals of the following year.

The degree of Bachelor of Education is no longer given for work in the School of Education. The degree of Bachelor of Theology was given from 1888 to 1892 by the Baptist Union Theological Seminary.

DEGREES CONFERRED BY THE FORMER UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO AND THE BAPTIST UNION THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

On February 2, 1891, the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, by formal vote, confirmed the Bachelor degrees conferred by the former institution, and by this action adopted its graduates as alumni of the University of Chicago.

No action was taken concerning degrees conferred by the former University other than Bachelor of Arts, Philosophy, and Science.

On July 13, 1891, the Baptist Union Theological Seminary became the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, and by formal action of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, approved by the Board of Trustees of the Seminary, the graduates of the Seminary were made alumni of the University of Chicago.
